Feminist perspectives (pp. 198-231). New York: Guilford Press. This is an invited chapter for the second edition of a ground-breaking book in clinical psychology that is used in graduate level psychopathology courses. The chapter looks at the forces influencing women's substance use from point of first use through recovery with an emphasis on the roles of socialization and environment. Invited chapter; editor and publisher reviewed.

- Collins, L. H. (2000). La Salle University Practicum and Internship Handbook. Philadelphia: La Salle University. This handbook was developed for the Psychology Department's Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.) program in Clinical Psychology. To develop it I consulted Clinical Directors from APA accredited programs in clinical psychology, as well as licensing laws, APA's ethics code, Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards (ASPPB) guidelines, the National Register of Health Service Providers in Psychology guidelines, and Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC) guidelines for information about current practicum and internship standards. I incorporated the information obtained, including "boiler plate" guidelines present across most programs. The practices described in this handbook are consistent with those of other accredited programs. Reviews by ASPPB and APA consultants found no problems with the procedures described by this handbook. Some of the forms and procedures that I developed have been adopted by other programs.

Awards / Honors Bestowed

National Awards

- Recognition for Commitment to Global Feminist Issues (2015). American Psychological Association, Division 35 (Society for the Psychology of Women)
Awarded for history of involvement in global issues cumulating in the 2015 Summit on the International Psychology of Women in Toronto, ON.
- Christine Ladd-Franklin Award, Association for Women in Psychology (2005).
The Association for Women in Psychology (AWP) presents The Christine Ladd-Franklin Award to an individual who has made significant and extensive contributions to the Association and to feminist psychology. The award's purpose is to recognize the service and scholarship of the recipient and to acknowledge the contributions of women in psychology. The award is named in honor of Christine Ladd-Franklin (1847-1930), who was an early logician, mathematician, physicist, and psychologist.
- Fellow Status, American Psychological Association. Fellows constitute less than 6% of APA's total membership (<http://www.apa.org/about/apa/archives/membership.aspx>). APA's criteria for Fellow status are as follows, "Fellow status in APA is an honor bestowed upon APA members who have shown evidence of unusual and outstanding contributions or performance in the field of psychology. Fellow status requires that a person's work has had a national impact on the field of psychology beyond a local, state or regional level. A high level of competence or steady and continuing contributions are not sufficient to warrant fellow status. National impact must be demonstrated." Fellow nominations and applications are first reviewed at the division level in an applicant's area(s) of expertise, then by higher level governance committees of APA, including the APA Board of Directors. It is an organization-wide honor achieved by fewer than 6% of APA's full members.
 - Fellow, American Psychological Association, Division 12, Clinical Psychology (2010). To qualify for Fellow status in APA Division 12, the candidate must have also met APA Division 12's requirements:
<http://www.apa.org/membership/fellows/division-12.pdf>
 - Fellow, American Psychological Association, International Psychology (APA Divisions 52) (2006). For more information, please see:
<http://www.apa.org/membership/fellows/division-52.pdf>
 - Fellow, American Psychological Association, Society for the Psychology of Women (APA Division 35) (2004). In division 35, Fellow status is an honor bestowed upon members who have made an "unusual and outstanding contributions or performance in the field of psychology." According to the criteria, "Fellow Status requires that a person's work has had a national impact on the field of psychology beyond a local, state, or regional level. A high level of competence or steady and continuing contributions are not sufficient to warrant Fellow status. National impact must be demonstrated.”

- 2004 National Council of Schools and Programs of Professional Psychology Women's Issues Committee Individual Award. This award is given in recognition of significant individual contributions to the enhancement of women's issues in professional psychology training.
