Keynote Follow-up Discussion
Location: Fort Henry Room

Dr. Luoluo Hong
Dean of Students
University of Wisconsin - Madison

Come and share a follow-up discussion with our Keynote speaker Dr. Luoluo Hong. Dr. Hong will answer questions participants may have on her speech, work or a topic of her choosing. Come interact with our keynote speaker in a smaller group setting.

Understanding the Millenium Student
Location: Meeting Room B

Daniel Cummings
Director of Judicial Affairs
University of Cincinnatti

In recent studies most influential events on today's college students include Clinton impeachment, Columbine shootings, Hip-Hop and the Bling-Bling culture, Enron, and September 11. How might these events shape a student's view of community, integrity or civility? In this interactive session, the presenter will provide an overview of the research and findings about our current students' dialogue.

Are Living-Learning Programs More Like the Miracle Cure or the Placebo?: Results from the 2004 National Study of Living-Learning Programs (NSLLP)
Location: Meeting Room A

Dr. Karen Inkelas - Consultant in Residence
Assistant Professor in the College Student Personnel Program, Department of Counseling & Personnel Services
University of Maryland

Karen Inkelas will present the findings from the 2004 NSLLP, which includes approximately 24,000 students from 34 universities representing over 250 living-learning programs. She will discuss the relationship between living-learning programs and a variety of student outcomes, such as perceptions of intellectual growth, civic engagement, diversity appreciation, and alcohol behaviors.

Creating New Heights: Strategic Planning in Residence Life
Location: Terrace Room

John D. Stafford - Consultant in Residence
Director of Residential and Community Development
The College of New Jersey

Join this PDP to learn about effective planning. During part one of the session we will review 360° planning, long-range planning and strategic planning. Part two of the program will be experiential in leading participants in designing a planning paradigm and the creation of a strategic planning team.

Dealing with Computer Policy Violations: A Collaborative Approach
Location: Conference Room 6

Joanne Goldwater
Assistant Dean for Residential Life
St. Mary`s College of Maryland

Jeff Orzolek
Assistant Director of Residence Life
St. Mary's College of Maryland

Professional Development Program - 120 Minutes

Many schools are grappling with computer policy violations, especially downloading and sharing copyrighted materials. Come to this session to see how a small college handled some interesting and disturbing computer violations in collaboration with our Technology Services staff. We will review some case studies and judicial sanctions. Handouts will be provided.